

Barranca del Cobre, Mexico

Pictures in the text show places of inspiration.

Journey in Being presents an exciting view of the universe as limitless realization. This view is proved—this makes it especially empowering.

The view is shown to agree with and envelope all valid present and future experience and science. It implies that our cosmos is infinitesimal in comparison to the universe.

It is especially exciting that we inherit the power of the universe—for the contrary would be a limit on the universe.

The text resolves the apparent contradiction between this limitlessness and our experience of limits. It shows an approach to negotiating what we experience as limits. We are shown to be part of a matrix of civilizations that cycle through population of the universe and subsequent dissolutions.

This work is transparent—its critical imagination is laid out for the reader. It calls on no special authority and requires no belief. The view set out in the work has deep implications for science, reason and destiny. Our experience of essential problems, especially death and pain, is not eliminated or minimized—it is given meaning. Above all our journey remains ever fresh—it is one that has no limit to its variety, extent, duration, summits, and dissolutions. The universe has phases without end or boundary of acute, diffuse, and absent manifestation and identity and we are part of that process.

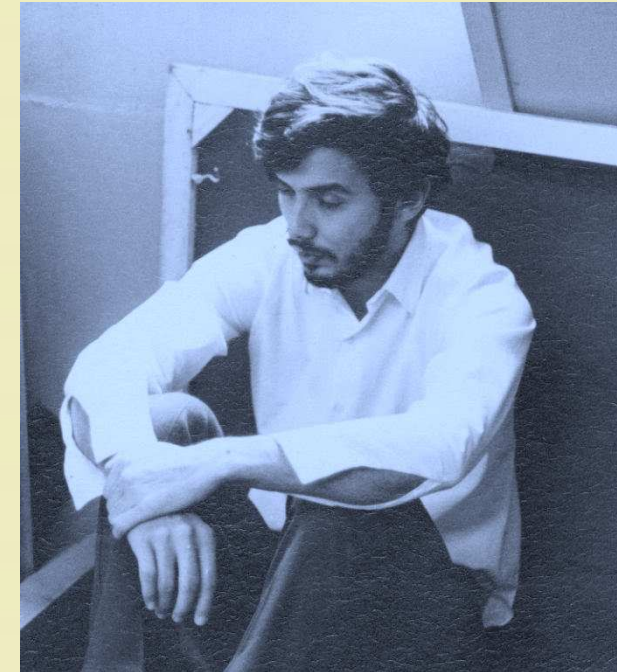

Photography, design, and layout—Anil Mitra.

Printed—Times Printing Company, Eureka, California.

$10.95

Write to amitra@horizons-2000.org for custom content, design, and pricing.

JOURNEY IN BEING

ANIL MITRA